There is a mortgage of $1600 to run 3 or 5 years at seven per cent.

Our price is $3000; $1000 cash, $400 to be secured on the property ten years at seven per cent. Let's figure it out, it will take $140 a year to pay your interest on the $2000; taxes say $15; insurance $5. Take this amount $160 in all from the $258 rental and it leaves you $98 net for the use of your $1000. Besides this the property is sure to advance from $200 to $500 within 5 years. It's worth looking into.

TO QUIT ON MAY DAY.

Preparations of the Miners for Their Coming Strike.

THEY DEMAND THE EIGHT-HOUR DAY.

Operators Not Disposed to Grant It, and 200,000 Will Cease Work May 1—Trouble Apparently Ahead in Europe.

LABOR'S WAR.

Chicago, April 21.—The threatened strike of the miners May 1, if it takes place, will be one of the most colossal in history and marked by many features which will make it memorable. The strike will be for an eight-hour working day. Two hundred thousand coal miners and laborers employed about mines will stop work. The strike will be backed by the American Federation of Labor, the most powerful body of organized labor in the world, which now numbers 1,000,000 members. All these members have been assessed monthly since January 1 for the strike fund which will be used to aid the miners in their struggle.

The operators, as those who own coal mines and coke ovens and market their own products are termed to distinguish them from mere dealers, have formed a close association. They have met the miners in conference at Pittsburgh and failed to come to terms. Col. W. P. Rend, of this city, stood alone among the vast assembly of operators as an advocate of granting the eight hours a day. The strike will be so extensive as to practically cover the coal fields of the country, and shortage, high prices, famine in coal may be among the early results.

Railroads and the great manufacturing establishments are already buying coal in enormous quantities and having it delivered to them at once in view of the threatened strike. The strike will cover the great hard and soft coal fields of Pennsylvania, the soft coal districts of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, as well as the smaller coal territories in other states. But the states named are the great coal producers. There is hard coal in Wyoming, but it is undeveloped, and there is considerable soft coal in Iowa. There will be no strike in the great coal fields of the south in Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia. The mining is done there by convict labor by the state. But all the output of the southern mines is demanded by the southern market, so that it will be impossible for them to send coal to aid of the northern and western mine-owners.

The miners are organized as the United Mine Workers of America. John B. Rae is president, and their organization is a thorough one. The prominent character in the struggle on behalf of the miners will be Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. The storm center will be Pittsburgh. Mr. Gompers is now completing a trip through all the coal districts encouraging the movement. He is reaching among all the federated trades over which he presides, selecting his lieutenants, giving out instructions and making final preparations for the struggle.

The date for this strike was set over a year ago at the Boston convention of the American Federation of Labor. In 1885 this body, meeting at Cleveland, decided to force the concession of an eight-hour working day, and fixed on May 1, 1886, as the date for a general strike in all the trades where the demand was refused. The brunt of the battle fell on Chicago, and the climax was reached in the Haymarket tragedy, the result of an anarchistic interference with trades unions. Some trades secured eight hours on that memorable day, but the general result showed the plan to be impracticable. At the next general convention, in 1888, a resolution fixing May 1, 1890, as a date for a general strike was defeated. After four days of discussion another plan of campaign was adopted. It was decided, instead of a general strike every three or four years, to have one trade strike each year, May 1, and throw the entire strength of the federation to its support. The best organized trade union was to be given the honor of making the contest.

The carpenters were selected as the trade on which the first fight should be made, and May 1, 1890, set as the date for the strike in eight hours. A series of eight-hour meetings was held. Public sentiment was aroused. The carpenters struck. The financial and moral aid of the federation was given them and they won. Of the 350 cities in which they struck they won their demands in 300. In some cities, besides shorter hours, larger wages were also secured.

A COMING STRIKE IN EUROPE.
LONDON, April 21.—In view of the approach of May-day anarchists are busy throughout Europe organizing for a general strike. In Paris, Vienna, Madrid they are distributing fiery circulars. Fifty thousand of these circulars are said to have been distributed in the barracks of Paris surreptitiously during the last week. Meetings of workmen were held Sunday throughout Austria and Hungary to arrange for demonstrations, and displayed great cohesion. In Spain the workmen are agitating in Barcelona, Valencia, Cadiz, Valladolid, Saragossa and other places, but the trades unions deprecate the strike on the ground that the men are unorganized and lack funds, and that by striking they will only play into the hands of the employers besides creating a hostile feeling in the cortex after the government's projected important remedial measures. All the European governments have decided to prohibit outside demonstrations. The employers are combining to resist the strike in Spain, and insist that every indoor meeting must be attended by a government delegate.

Death of a Yale Professor.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 21.—Dr. James K. Thatcher, professor of physiology in Yale university, died suddenly of pneumonia, aged 45 years.

His Little Son Worked.
Lady (to tramp)—You'd better go somewhere else for a meal. I don't see why you singled out this house.

Tramp—The reason is plain, lady. Judging from the appetizing odor that comes from your kitchen I am satisfied that you are the finest cook on the street.

Lady—Come right in, sir. I'll have a tenderloin steak ready for you in about ten minutes.—Boston Herald.

THE BADGER STATE.

Work of the Wisconsin Legislature Practically Ended.

MADISON, Wis., April 21.—The legislative session of 1891—the fortieth numerically—is practically at an end. The transaction of all active business closes to-day, but the formal adjournment of the session will be on Saturday, April 25. At that time the session will have been exactly 103 days in length. The legislature of 1891 is remarkable for several reasons. In the first place it possesses a democratic majority in each branch—four in the senate and thirty-three in the assembly—and the executive department of the government is also democratic. This is the first time such a combination has existed in Wisconsin for more than thirty years. It accomplished many important results. It put itself on record as against the free coinage of silver among other acts. In a general way its most important accomplishments may be stated as follows:

The election of William F. Vilas to the United States senate, to succeed John C. Spooner, by a unanimous vote on the part of the majority, which had likewise conferred a unanimous nomination on him in caucus. The repeal of the act of 1887 which placed the state into ten congressional and 123 legislative districts. The abolition of the state board of supervision and the state board of charities and reform, and the creation of a new state board of control of six members to perform the duties of the other two. The enactment of a compulsory school statute to take its place. The laying of a tax of one mill on the value of one-half of one mill to aid the state university; this will make a fund of about $67,500 per year. The enactment of a strict child labor law which prohibits the employment of children under 12 years of age in factories, places of amusement, etc., the investigation of the Sturgeon Bay Ship Canal Company; the requirement that fire insurance policies shall be uniform; the creation of two additional judicial circuits. The acceptance of the war tax to be refunded, and its distribution chiefly among the several educational funds. The abolition of the present system of game wardens and the creation of the office of chief game warden.

MADISON, Wis., April 21.—Both branches of the legislature Monday night passed the bill appropriating $50,000 to the veterans' home. The governor vetoed one measure on this subject, but this one meets all his objections. The bill was also passed permitting the state to settle the treasury cases. The scheme to place the farmers' institutions in the hands of the governor was killed. The special committee to investigate the Sturgeon Bay ship canal reported that the government owed the company $81,000 and memorialized congress to pay it that sum and make the canal free.

GIVEN HIS FREEDOM.

L. J. Baldwin Acquitted of Murder at Fairfield, Ia., After Serving Part of His Term.

FAIRFIELD, Ia., April 21.—After a trial which has arrayed almost the entire county upon one side or the other, Lawrence J. Baldwin, who has once before been tried, found guilty and sent to the penitentiary, where he served part of his sentence, has been acquitted of the murder of Mattie Rodabaugh. It was alleged that Baldwin had, through malpractice, killed the woman July 5, 1885, to hide his own illegal familiarity with her, and he was convicted largely on the evidence of the dying woman and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. In 1889 the supreme court reversed the decision of the lower court on the ground that the woman's dying statement was inadmissible. The second trial, just ended, has lasted ten days. Mattie Rodabaugh was the daughter of a wealthy farmer of Van Buren county whose family has been blighted by the ruin and death of the promising girl. Baldwin, who was rich, is now a bankrupt.

A Disastrous Cave-In.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 21.—A disastrous cave-in in one of the largest mines in the Pennsylvania anthracite region, the Black Diamond, has occurred at Luzerne. A total of about sixty acres of land have settled. Great fissures ran lengthwise and crosswise through the streets and underneath the residences. Several fine properties are badly wrecked. The damage to the mine amounts to thousands of dollars, as six acres of the workings are rendered useless.

Municipal Elections.

Bloomington, Ill., Monday elected Capt. Daniel T. Foster (rep.) mayor.

The city election at Boscomb, Wis., Monday resulted in the election of James Barrett (rep.) for mayor. The republicans also elected the treasurer, city justice and three aldermen. The democrats elected one alderman and one justice. "The council stands six republicans and two democrats."

Cregier Will Not Contest.

CHICAGO, April 21.—When the canvassing board met Judge Prendergast, on behalf of Mayor Cregier, waived all objection to the canvass of the returns as made by the board and agreed to abide by its decision. This settles the question of a certificate of election to mayor of Chicago will be issued to Hempstead Washburne.

World's Fair Laborers' Strike.

CHICAGO, April 21.—About 500 world's fair site laborers at Jackson park quit work upon refusal of the contractors, McArthur Bros., to grant them an increase of wages. The trouble is expected to spread throughout the ranks of the entire force. So far there has been no violence.

Death of a College President.

ROME, N. Y., April 21.—Rev. Henry Darling, D. D., president of Hamilton college, at Clinton, N. Y., has just died of bronchitis. He was one of the foremost educators of the United States, and it was under him that Hamilton has attained its great prosperity.

Made a Brigadier.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Col. Fantz of the Eighth infantry, has been appointed brigadier general of the United States army, to succeed Gen. John Gibbon, retired.

Colorado Gives $100,000 for the Fair.

DENVER, Col., April 21.—Gov. Routt has signed the bill appropriating $100,000 for the purpose of making Colorado's display at the world's fair.

Wanted Inequity.

Spindle—Why do you put such horribly perfumed soap on your hair? It's enough to knock anyone over.

Brindle—To keep from catching cold.

"Huh! What good does that stuff do?"

"It has become the style now for gentlemen to remove their hats in all sorts of draughty places when there happen to be ladies present; but when I take off mine they always beg me to put it on again so as not to take cold."

"Huh! How much is it a bottle?"

GEN. FOSTER'S TREATY WITH SPAIN.

Premier Canovas Yields to Strong Pressure and Practically Relinquishes Commerce with the Cubans—A Good Bargain for U. S.

PROVISIONS OF THE TREATY.

LONDON, April 21.—The reciprocity convention between Spain and the United States as drafted by Premier Canovas del Castillo, representing Spain, and Gen. J. W. Foster, representing the United States, is based, as the United States is concerned, upon the reciprocity section of the new American tariff law. In return for the privilege of free entry into the United States of Antilles sugar, molasses, coffee and hides, and a reduction of the duty on tea, America will obtain exemption from duties on most of its raw and manufactured products, and a reduction of the tariff on cereals and flour.

The negotiations were protracted upon the question of the entire abolition of the tariff on cereals, flours and oils, including petroleum and lard. The same question in regard to tobacco was also raised, but not coming within the scope of the third section of the American tariff law was put aside. Premier Canovas offered protracted resistance to the abolition of the tariff on flour. Barcelona and Santander traders, who are largely interested in flour shipments, presented energetic protests which fortified the minister in his disposition to accede to the American proposals. Eventually representations that American reciprocity would be impossible unless Spain granted the concession of American cereals induced Premier Canovas to assent to such a reduction of the tariff as will place American flour upon a nearly equal footing with Spanish flour.

Santander merchants declare that, taking into consideration the cost of the transportation of Castile grain, of which the bulk goes to the Antilles, American flour will crush out the Spanish product in the Spanish West Indies. Cuba now consumes 500,000 barrels of flour yearly, chiefly Spanish, and enters free of duty, and pays for it $13 per barrel. Trade in American flour, burdened with an extra duty of 20 per cent, since 1889, has been completely wiped out to the advantage of the Spanish product.

Under the new convention the entry of American flour practically free of duty will lower the price to about six dollars per barrel and will extinguish the importation of Spanish flour while increasing the Cuban consumption to a million barrels yearly, all of which will be American product. If the pressure of Spanish interests had not been counteracted by the demands of the Cuban commission of notables, who were determined to obtain reciprocity with the United States, Premier Canovas would have declined to make such concessions. The prospect of a dangerous tension of the relations of Spain with Cuba and Puerto Rico, resulting probably in civil war, obliged the government to sacrifice home industries to colonial interests. Under the new convention America will obtain a kind of Zollverein with the Spanish Antilles. Her wheat, beans, flour, lard, petroleum, manufactured products and machinery will enter practically free of duty. Among other Spanish exports olive oil will be replaced by American lard and beans, now exported to Cuba in large quantities, will come to his market. The advantages resulting to Cuba will be great, but it is impossible to estimate the injury to Spanish trade.

According to the returns of the British consular general at Havana the sugar crop in Cuba for 1890 amounted to 945,204 tons, valued at $1,400,000. The total of molasses the total product was 111,422 tons, as compared with 101,059 tons in 1889. The exports of sugar to Europe from the 1st of January to the 31st of July, 1890, were 49,365 tons, and to the United States during the same period 859,012 tons.

JOE MULHATTON INSANE.

The Noted Story Teller Confined at the Chicago Detention Hospital.

CHICAGO, April 21.—Joseph Mulhatten is insane. He is locked up at the detention hospital to await formal examination in his mental condition. Mr. Mulhatten is a traveling salesman. He became widely known some years ago as the apotheosis of the drummer's talent for telling tall yarns. His extraordinary ability in this professional acquirement excited the curiosity of the public. He was a drummer, which was appropriately expressed by making him their candidate for the presidency of the United States during the last national campaign. Last January he was thrown from a street-car in New Orleans, and the fall broke his neck, leaving him unable to walk. He has been in the city four days and was staying at No. 375 Washburn avenue. H. B. Mulvaney, a lodge brother, found him roaming about the streets in a demented condition, and while caring for him at his room Mulhatten took a revolver from his trunk and attempted to shoot Mr. Mulvaney. The police were called in and Mr. Mulhatten taken to the detention hospital. He is quiet and appears to realize his condition. He is said to have ample means and it is thought he will be taken to a private asylum.

Captured by His Wife's Plucky Sister.

MAVSLIE, Ky., April 21.—About 11 o'clock a. m. Alex. Johnson quarreled with his wife and shot her in the head, inflicting what is probably a fatal wound. After the shot was fired, Della Carls, his wife's sister, seized the smoking pistol and, putting it to Johnson's head, marched him down to the mayor's office, where she turned him over to the proper officers.

SOME DEMOCRATIC FAILURES.

Although the formal adjournment of the legislature will not take place until Saturday, the session is now practically at an end. To-morrow the transaction of all active business will cease. The legislature will be remarkable for nothing more than for the number of things it said it was going to do but didn't. Among the failures were:

To enact a law making railway corporations liable for injuries to employees through the carelessness or negligence of co-employees.

To abolish the office of dairy and food commissioner, of state veterinarian, of state treasury agent and of insurance commissioner.

To abolish the present system of game wardens and the creation of the office of chief game warden.

To forbid the granting of railway passes to public officials.

To authorize the semi-annual collection of taxes.

To give the governor power to appoint the superintendents of farm institutes.

These were six of the measures on which democratic orators dwelt most fondly and their failure will compell the re-shaping of much campaign thunder.

HOW DINNER PAIRS ARE TAMED.

The members of the dinner pair brigade are appropriate as good things when they eat it. They can now have sugar in their coffee, but they are not quite satisfied with the increased taxes on their tinware. It seems the republicans have been too timid of throwing a tax now and then but they never fail to slap back double in some other way. It is only the rich who should become richer in their opinion.—Recorder.

Tin plate is now being manufactured within fifty miles of Chicago, and sold for less money than the same article brought six months ago. The dinner pair brigade paid thirty cents for tin plate last year. The same article can be bought today at any hardware store in the country for twenty-five cents, and it is the development of factories at home that did it.

The Milwaukee Journal is beginning to regret its declaration that republicans were pushing the matter of compromise. The facts are that the proposition came from democrats and Boss Wall's efforts have been directed to inducing republicans to stand in and pass the bill. It is a democratic job and all the hue and cry of the organs will not blind the people to the fact.

Learned medical scientists in Michigan have determined that the germ theory of disease is a phantasy and the bacillus is a humbug. But Michigan may not not be a good state for scientists.

The amounts Bernum paid the newspapers for advertising in the past twenty years are computed at $3,000,000. No one believes however that without this expenditure he would have left $5,000,000.

Present indications lead the Madison Journal to think that the official organ set in Boss Wall's basket of eggs when it attacked the treasury interest suit compromise.

Surprising how quiet the democratic organs are about the state treasury interest suit, isn't it? Perhaps they have heard something drop.

A General Tie-Up

of all the means of public conveyance in a large city, even for a few hours, during a strike of the employees, means a general paralyzing of trade and industry for the time being, and is attended with an enormous aggregate loss to the community. How much more serious to the individual is the general tie-up of his system known as constipation, and due to the strike of the most important organs for more prudent treatment and better care. If too long neglected, a torpid or sluggish liver will produce nervousness of body and liver diseases, malarious trouble and chronic dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgelets are a preventive and cure of these disorders. They are prompt, sure and effective, pleasant to take and positively harmless.

THE DEADLY STILETTO.

A Terrible Tragedy Results From an Italian's Artisticness.

New York, April 21.—At Hoboken early in the morning Angelo Gaboth murdered his mother-in-law, dangerously stabbed his father-in-law and was slain by Conoguito Chinchella, aged 18, son of the murdered woman. Gaboth's wife and her brother also received stab wounds.

The row occurred at 193 Grand street. Gaboth and his wife were visiting her parents, the Chinchellas. Gaboth, it is believed, visited the Chinchellas for the purpose of robbing his father-in-law. Sunday night Mrs. Gaboth slept with her mother and Gaboth slept with his father-in-law. About 12:30 o'clock, when all were soundly sleeping, Gaboth, armed with a stiletto, arose from the bed and noiselessly glided into his mother-in-law's room. Leaning over the sleeping woman he plunged the weapon into her abdomen, and then with a semi-circular sweep of the weapon almost disemboweled her. The woman uttered but a single shriek. She died almost instantly. Her cry partly aroused her husband, but not hearing it repeated he thought nothing further of it and soon fell asleep again. Gaboth's wife, who was sleeping with her mother, was not sound. The blood from her mother's horrible wound landed on her mother's face. She was not actually covered her, but still she did stir. There is no doubt that she was well aware of what her husband was doing and it looks as if she was a party to the plot to murder her relatives.

Gaboth, after killing his mother-in-law, returned to the room in which his father-in-law slept. A moment later he thrust the stiletto, still reeking with the blood of Mrs. Chinchella, into the neck of her husband. His aim was bad and he missed the vital spot, but the knife made a ragged wound in Mr. Chinchella's throat. The wounded man gave a shriek which awakened his son Conoguito. The latter sprang from his bed and rushed into his father's room. He was met by Gaboth with the stiletto dripping with blood in his uplifted hand. Conoguito was also armed with a stiletto. Gaboth struck a vicious blow at the son which the latter dodged. A fight of the death followed. Up and down the two men fought, each trying to carve the life out of the other. Gaboth's wife, hearing the struggle, ran from her room and threw herself between the combatants.

In doing this she received two slight stab wounds. Young Chinchella was further enraged at the sight of his sister covered with blood and pressed his antagonist the harder. Anselmo Chinchella, another son, took a hand in the row at this point and dragged his sister away, insisting that the two men be left to fight it out. Young Chinchella proved the stronger the more active of the two. He made a feint at his antagonist and a moment later drove the stiletto into his left eye and into the brain. As Gaboth was falling young Chinchella drew out the weapon and quickly plunged it into Gaboth's left side, piercing the heart. The latter fell to the floor a corpse.

Gaboth's wife, realizing that her husband had been killed, gave vent to a succession of screams. The neighbors were aroused and broke into the apartments of the Chinchellas. The Chinchella boys and their sister are under arrest. It is not expected that the father will survive.

At the police station, young Chinchella said: "If it is murder, then I did murder Gaboth. He killed my mother and tried to kill my father. He would have killed us all if I had not killed him. It was a fight for life between us and I killed him."

ON THE BORDER.

Mexicans to Unite with Americans in Honoring President Harrison at El Paso, Tex.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 21.—The presidential party arrived here at 9 a. m. Monday. The reception was most enthusiastic, but under the circumstances the effect of the liberal street demonstration was spoiled by the steady downpour, which necessitates the abandonment of all outdoor ceremonies. The party were driven to the opera house, where addresses of welcome were made by Gov. Hogg and Mayor Callahan, and responded to by the president. Secretary of War and Postmaster General Wanamaker. The president then held a public reception, which was largely attended. A short visit was made to Fort Sam Houston, after which the guests departed for El Paso.

Among other things the president said in his speech: "I rejoice that you have here so great a commonwealth. The stipulations under which Texas came into the union of the states, and which provided that great territory might be subdivided into five great states, seems not to attract much attention in Texas now. In fact, as you can judge, no man would be able successfully to take the surface of any hamlet in Texas upon the issue that the state should be divided at all. (Cheers.)

"I am glad to know and to have expressed my satisfaction before that here in the state of Texas you are giving attention to education; that you have been able to erect a school fund the interest upon which promises a most magnificent endowment for your commonwealth. These schools are the pride and safety of our state. They gather into them upon a common level with us, and I hope you, the children of the rich and poor. In the state in which I dwell every child attend the common schools. This lesson of equality, the perfect system which has been developed by this method of instruction, is training a valued class of citizens to take up the responsibilities of government when we shall lay them down. (Applause.) I hope every one of you communities, even your scattered rural communities, will pursue this good work."

El Paso, Tex., April 21.—Gov. Carrillo, of Chihuahua, Mex., has arrived accompanied by his staff to participate in the reception to be tendered President Harrison to-day. The governor's staff numbers twenty-five officers. He turned over to Mayor Caples, of El Paso, the Eleventh battalion band of Mexico, consisting of forty-five instruments, to participate, as ordered by the mayor, in the reception. The city is rapidly filling up with people from New Mexico, Arizona and old Mexico. Secretary Foster telegraphed the collector of customs to permit Gov. Carrillo, together with a battery of artillery, to enter the United States. The Mexican military authorities come as the representatives of President Diaz, of Mexico, and will to-day give a salute in honor of President Harrison on his arrival.

The entrance of the Mexican soldiery into the United States is the first event of the kind since the Mexican war. The Mexican officers will tender the president an invitation to visit the sister republic.

When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; hence cases of deafness caused by catarrh is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

MOSES AT THE CIRCUS.

"Hey dere! you Mose, ef' yo' doo' huse-ly in yair d'rectly wat' doo' wood, sunpin' I'd drap round h'ar!"

The shrill cry, impelled by the vigorous lungs of Aunt Caroline, floated over the bare little back yard, around the corner, and finally reached the ears of Moses, who sat on the "choppy" block, with his head in his hands, ruminating on some knotty question.

Hastily gathering the few sticks of wood that were cut, Mose started for the house, knowing by experience that he would feel the weight of Aunt Caroline's blows if he failed to get up the wood called for.

"Wot' yo' ben doin' all dis w'ile behin' dat co'n crib, yo' lazy, godd' nof'n' nigger? I sent yo' out dar ter cut wood, 'n' take dat' and sunpin' I'd drap round h'ar!"

Mose received a warm welcome from Aunt Caroline that night—very warm, coming as it did right after the application of the circus man's blow, but he says he got some satisfaction out of the "everlasting whuppin'" he gave Bill Johnson the next day—Arthur Chapman in Philadelphia Times.

An Historic Old Town.

Borgo is an old town about four miles from Helsingfors, and certainly the most characteristic of the small towns of Finland. By the side of the old town, with its quaint, irregular houses and its tortuous streets, there are square and unpicturesque quarters, with houses painted with yellow ochre, and reminding one of the mouth of a little river, and prettily set in a frame of hills and ancient fortifications, covered with venerable pine trees, Borgo presents a most curious aspect.

The old white cathedral, the strange houses of the old town, painted red, ochre and orange; the sheds and warehouses built along the river, with their foundations in the water itself, and everywhere in the intervals between these odd wooden buildings the fresh greenery of the gardens—such are some of the features which make this little town so characteristic. The cathedral is a large square monument built of blocks of granite, whitewashed, and with pointed gables. The steeple is separate from the church at a distance of about fifty paces. It is the type of almost all the churches of the Catholic era—that is to say, before Gustavus Vasa.

It was in this church of Borgo that Alexander in 1809 opened the Finnish diet, by which he promised to preserve and to respect forever the religion, the laws and the Swedish constitution of the country, thus according to his own words, raising Finland to a place among nations. —Albert Eideloff in Harper's.

"Hi, wot' yo' doin', Mose? Hey yo' got de Saint Bittis dance?" and Mose's inseparable friend, William Johnson, jumped over the fence and sat down on the log.

"I t'ort yo' wuz Aunt Caline, shon, yo' bet I don't want ter let her ketch me monkey'n' round like dis," and for five minutes nothing could be heard but the sound of the ax, as Mose hewed desperately at the tough wood.

"Say, Mose," said Bill, during a lull in the chopping, "go in ter de woods, 'n' look up some more wood, 'n' take dat' and sunpin' I'd drap round h'ar!"

Mose received a warm welcome from Aunt Caroline that night—very warm, coming as it did right after the application of the circus man's blow, but he says he got some satisfaction out of the "everlasting whuppin'" he gave Bill Johnson the next day—Arthur Chapman in Philadelphia Times.

THE RIVER HIS GRAVE.

Frank Hostetter Drowned Near Court Street Bridge.

HIS ROW BOAT CAPSIZED.

William Kaley, the Other Occupant of the Treacherous Craft, Taken Ashore But Hostetter's Body Not Recovered—A Deadly Current.

Another life went out in Rock river to day, the victim being Frank Hostetter, a student in Valentine's School of Telegraphy. The drowning occurred at about 11:12 o'clock this morning, near the west end of Pleasant street bridge.

Hostetter was riding an ordinary flat bottom boat, with a companion named William Kaley of Freeport, also a student in Valentine's school.

"We were passing under the bridge," said young Kaley, "when the boat struck one of the piles, tipping the boat so that it commenced filling with water.

Hostetter became frightened and I told him to hang to the boat. He failed to do so, but jumped into the water just as the boat passed from under the bridge. I understood him to say that he could swim. I held on to the boat and floated down the river, and was pulled ashore right here."

The young man was then down at or near Galena street, on the west bank of the river, securing his boat, which had filled with water. City Clerk Bates and a companion had secured a boat and followed up the river, catching him down near the foot of Galena street.

All afternoon men were at work trying to find the body of Hostetter. The water here went down is very deep, and the current is strong, and some difficulty was experienced in dragging the bottom of the river. Frank Hostetter came to Janesville on the 9th of last January from Cherokee, Iowa and entered Valentine's school of telegraphy.

He was twenty years old and weighed 220 pounds.

At 2:30 o'clock another boat containing a searching party, struck one of the piles near the spot where the first boat was turned over. The boat was capsized, but the boatmen along to the piling unit rescued by another crew close by.

HAD A TANK IN HIS VEST.

Brakemen Struck by a Thirsty Camel's Capacity.

"Yes, I say, darn a camel," remarked a brakeman as he knocked the ashes out of his pipe at the Northwestern depot this morning.

"Been taking a trip on the Sahara desert?"

"No; but we had a camel belonging to Ringling Brothers' circus on our train, and our orders were to water him at Montrose, Illinois. Did you ever see a camel drink water? Well, eight men carried water to that camel in pails for over two hours.

The internal beast drank it all and wanted more. Bet we gave him six barrels of water. I always doubted the fact that a camel would drink enough water at one time to last him a month, but I begin to believe it now. We had a whole lot of foreign beasts on our train and I say before I'll water another camel I'll have a bump on my back bigger than the camel has."

TWELFTH NIGHT! A DELIGHT.

Marie Wainwright's Production Highly Commended in the East.

Marie Wainwright, who will be seen tomorrow evening in her production of Shakespeare's comedy, "Twelfth Night," is happily not one of those stars who thinks it advisable to surround herself by weak actors or unattractive women.

She has spared no pains to secure a cast in Barton Hill and W. F. Owen, has the two best living representatives of "Malvolio" and "Sir Toby." The ladies Blanche Walsh and Louise Muldener, are noted alike for their talents and good looks, and with Miss Wainwright make up a trio of the most attractive women now together on our stage.

Miss Wainwright brings all the furniture, and necessities used in the New York production, of which the Herald of this city said: "The performance is a symphony of delight."

CLINTON, April 21—Oliver Anderson, son of Rev. Anderson of South Clinton, has an invention for the protection of the coast against foreign invasions. He expects to have a working model completed by the end of the month. Anderson says the machine will be capable of destroying the largest sized vessels and that it is attracting the attention of the government. Mr. Tracy, secretary of the navy, having become interested in it. The young inventor is known as the originator of valuable devices in wood working machinery.

The way freight, going north, broke an axle on an oil car about one mile south of town Tuesday. The wrecking train from Janesville came and put under new trucks, the track was cleared and the car proceeded on its way.

C. P. Drake's hardware store was entered by a burglar Saturday morning between 3 and 4 o'clock. He got in at a side window and as he lighted a match attracted the attention of Nightwatchman Elthorpe.
